Heritage

Know-how and maximum attention to detail are applied to unique handcrafted processes that make each piece a work of art. A journey through unrepeatable creations inspired by the most varied feelings, traditions or cultures. Works of art that tell stories.

WORKS OF ART IN PORCELAIN

Japan-Kabuki is a limited edition of 250 units. High Porcelain is the category covering the most exclusive creations coming from the Lladró workshops.

The work of the sculptor Francisco Polope, who studied numerous Ukiyo-e illustrations of kabuki actors and borrowed inspiration from the great plays of the Edo period like Shibaraku, is an excellent demonstration of the skill and consummate technical control achieved by the brand's artists.

This portrayal of a kabuki actor, one of the most highly appreciated and traditional genres of Japanese theater, is outstanding for the strength and power it conveys and also for the faithfulness with which it reproduces each detail of this ancient art form, characterized by extraordinarily elaborate make-up and costumes.

To recreate this majestic character in such great detail, it was decided to use matte porcelain to enhance the profuse ornamentation. Particularly worth highlighting is the filigree work of the etchings on the sword and the dragon's head on its hilt, as well as the patterns adorning the clothing, from the headdress to the skirts decorated with striking geometric designs.

The decoration of the piece also boasts a rich spectrum of colors, with a special mention for the metallic tones of the skirt, which called for a highly specific and complex application. Equally of note are the various finishes used to underscore the details and the striking recreation of the make-up covering the actor's face.

In short, Japan-Kabuki is a creation that transmits all the expressiveness and visual wealth for which this traditional expression of Japanese culture is famous.

Lord Balaji

Lord Balaji, the god of miracles, is depicted once again by Lladró artists in a limited edition of 2700 units. Its majestic decoration with ocher and golden luster in glazed and matte finishes, and the spectacular ornamental wealth make this Lord Balaji truly dazzling.

This special edition of Hanuman: Lord of the Monkeys, venerated for his courage, learning and loyalty, plays with the energy of the coloring to make it even more striking. The range of oranges and reds is combined with profuse ornamentation focused above all on the coat, garlands, pendants, headdress and face. Just you and me conveys the deep bond produced by a warm embrace, by love and by moments of intimacy that make you forget everything else.

The culture, symbolism and color of Africa are the sources of inspiration for this work. The facial features of the woman depicted in this bust are exquisitely sculpted in matte porcelain while the headscarf she is wearing is one of the most widely used and recognizable accessories in African clothing.

In reproducing this item of dress, the Lladró artists have paid special attention to the wealth of the patterns and the vibrant coloring. They have etched by hand all the details of the pattern and they have decorated it with copper, pink, black and golden lusters.

The result is a creation with great decorative value, whose beauty and painstaking execution are sure to captivate.

Japanese Dancer is inspired by the iconography of dances with fans, traditional kimonos and the beauty of Japanese hairdos, elements which are treated both sculpturally and decoratively. Firstly, through the etchings on the fans and the bas-relief of the flowers on the kimono. And secondly, with the use of bronze, metallic pink and pearlescent luster combined in perfect harmony. These exquisite details, with the crowning touch of the petals adorning the hair, celebrate the beauty of Japanese culture.

For these two compositions, the Lladró artists have taken their inspiration from the daruma, the Japanese good luck charm that symbolizes a desired goal. Traditionally made in cardboard, this talisman was then burnt in an act of gratitude once the desire had been fulfilled.

Unlike the original daruma, these creations are made in glazed porcelain and symbolize both goals achieved and new ones yet to be set. For the decoration, it was decided to create a version in pink and another in blue, with touches of golden luster. Both versions boast painstaking floral ornamentation, etched by hand, and have the word Happiness written in traditional Japanese characters.

A Romantic Stroll is the latest addition to the Flower Market collection, inspired by the famous flower market in Paris first opened in 1830.

This couple, accompanied by a beautiful dalmatian which is looking at them attentively, transports us to the idyllic romanticism of the nineteenth century. The lady is wearing a dress with the puff sleeves in fashion at the time and elaborate embroidery etched by hand, while the gentlemen is wearing the typical cravat and hat of the period. The scene is completed by a series of details decorated in delicate tones.

In addition, the lady's parasol is made with the unique tulle method, adding even further complexity to the creation.

Made in matte white porcelain with subtle notes of color, the scene produces tender emotions.

The velvety texture of this elegant color contrasts with the shiny and matte golden luster used to decorate details of the composition like the central fin or the delicate flowers.
